

USSR to Post-Soviet Russia:

Reparations or Repression for Stalin's Victims?

March 29, 10:30 a.m.—1:00 p.m. EDT

This panel will explore proposals in the early post-Soviet period to honor the memory of, and perhaps provide reparations to, the victims of Stalinist repression. They were replaced by official government efforts to rehabilitate Stalin's reputation and even rewrite the history of World War II. Organizations such as Memorial, formed to maintain the memory of Stalin's crimes, have been declared "foreign agents" and obliged to curb their activities. This event brings together an interdisciplinary panel of experts to discuss the initiatives and missed opportunities in post-Soviet reparations.

Please register here:

https://cornell.zoom.us/join/registrant/WN_31V6Pw5-TXGhkKMY_gSGfw

Speakers

Nikolay Epplee
INDEPENDENT RESEARCHER

Ivan Kurilla
EUROPEAN UNIVERSITY AT
ST. PETERSBURG

Egle Rindzevičiūtė
KINGSTON UNIVERSITY LONDON

Nina Tumarkin
WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Moderated by

Matthew Evangelista
CORNELL UNIVERSITY

20 | Repair and Reparations
21 | IES MIGRATION SERIES

The panel is sponsored by the IES of Einaudi Center for International Studies at Cornell University. It is organized as part of IES' Migration Series for its AY 2020-21 theme Repair and Reparations. You may find information about the past events including their video recordings here: <https://einaudi.cornell.edu/programs/institute-european-studies/events/ies-migrations-series> The panel may be posted online depending on the speakers' decision after the event. For questions, please contact Pamela Hampton ph55@cornell.edu

